Reserves Program Passes

Senate Committee Adopts New Form, Differs From House And Ike Requests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee approved today a new national reserve program differing widely from administration requests and from a bill passed by the House.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) called it "a good workable compromise."

He said he planned to make a formal report to the Senate later today and call the bill up for possible passage tomorrow.

The Senate group retained the basic provision for allowing youths from 17 to 18½ years of age to volunteer from three to six months active duty training with the regular services. Then they would serve the remainder of eight years in the active reserve.

Rejected was a Pentagon demand that present and former servicemen, who have completed active draft or enlistments, be compelled to serve in the active reserve.

Instead, Russell said, the committee accepted his proposal for an incentive bonus ranging from about $100 to several hundred dollars, for service veterans who volunteer for three years active training with reserve combat units.

Sen. Case (R-SD), first to report that a new formula by Russell had been generally accepted by the committee, said there were no dissenting votes against the outline.

"I believe this is closer to what the administration wanted than I first thought," Russell said in disclosing his new plan to build up the ready reserve to 2,900,000 men by 1960.

Russell offered to make these changes in the bill passed by the House:

1. Eliminate a provision saying youths could not volunteer for this special reserve until they had completed high school or attained 19. The Pentagon proposed to open the plan to all youths from 17 to 18½.
2. Permit trainees to be assigned to National Guard units. The House junked such a provision after an earlier version had been amended on the floor to bar assignment of reservists to Guard units which practice racial segregation.
3. Eliminate a House provision that cut the present eight-year reserve obligation to six years for men who had been drafted or volunteered since the date of the Korean treaty, July 27, 1953.

Pettis County Gets $3,000 Extra for Roads

In a letter dated June 28, the Pettis County Court was informed that their annual allocation from the state for the construction of county roads will be raised for the fiscal year, beginning July 1, 1955.

This increase is a direct result of the state's allocation for $2,000,000 for such types of roads and bridges for this year under the King Road Bill of 1947. For Pettis County it means there will be an additional $3,159.91 over the last year's allocation.

The new budget for state aid to the county calls for $26,249.26, as compared to $23,089.15 for last year.

Under the provisions of state road aid, Pettis County must provide one third of the cost of these different road projects. For example, if the contract calls for one mile of road at $1500 the state will put up $1000 and the county $500. The state makes provision in their allocations, however, that any road project which costs over $1500 per mile must have the difference financed by the county.

Therefore, if a contract was let for $1750 per mile, the county would be compelled to provide $750, due to the state's previous stipulation of bearing only two-thirds of the costs with a limit of $1500 per mile.

A Luckier Year

Our mild summer is certainly a contrast with last year. By this time last year we had gasped our way through 14 days when the temperature was 100 or above. And the worst day of all was just around the corner.

Generally fair with little change in temperature tonight and Thursday. Low tonight near 70. High Thursday near 90-95.

The temperature was 67 at 7 a.m. and 92 at 2 p.m.

The temperature one year ago today, high 111, low 78; two years ago, high 84, low 59; and three years ago, high 94, low 75, with .3" inch of rain.

Broadway Will Be Beautified--

Lippard Tells Chamber Board Urban Area Plan's Importance

The importance of the Urban Highway Plan to Sedalia was stressed by Ray Lippard, chairman of the steering committee for the plan, at the regular board meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday afternoon. Lippard pointed out that the sooner this bond issue is approved the quicker work will start in this area. The bond issue for $250,000, which definitely will not increase taxes is a progressive step and now or later, will benefit all citizens of Sedalia because it will bring more tourist dollars into the city which helps everybody, he said.

In answer to a question raised that is in the minds of many people about Broadway, Lippard stated that if Broadway is now a pretty street it will be the most beautiful street in this part of the country anywhere when the planned landscaping by professionals in the business has been completed.

It is very necessary, he said, that all citizens realize what an opportunity this will mean to Sedalia to get its share of federal and state funds for the building of the highways through Sedalia. These streets will be kept in first class condition at all times by the state without cost to Sedalia property owners on those streets. The amount to be voted is the very maximum needed for right-of-ways. That entire amount may not be necessary, Lippard said, and although it will not raise the taxes, it must be voted on.

The proposed plan was then endorsed by members of the Chamber of Commerce board.

Claude Boul announced that the contract for the 16th Street Road has been let and work of construction is in progress. This road will go from Sedalia direct to the south gate of the Sedalia Air Force Base and will thus give another and shorter route to the base.

Ivan Berry, director of the agriculture division, announced that 4-H Achievement Day will be held at the Smith-Cotton cafeteria on July 21, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and urged members of the Chamber to visit this outstanding exhibit of the rural youth of this area.

Berry also told of the 4-H Business Leaders Picnic which will be held at Liberty Park at 6:30 p.m. July 26. Two tickets will be sent next week to each paid-up member of the Chamber of Commerce. The affair will end with a square dance.

Mrs. Marjorie Garansson, membership director stated that one new member, Aaron Smith, had been secured during the past month. This makes a total of 59 new members and renewals for the year.

The meeting was presided over by K. U. Love, president. Present at the meeting were Carleton Kelly, Mrs. Marjorie Garansson, Jack Shoemaker, W. E.

Plane Trailer Hit By Truck West of Town

An airplane trailer was badly wrecked and slight damage resulted to an old type plane which was being towed in an accident just west of Brown's Service Station, at the Gasoline Alley and Highway 50 junction. The accident occurred about 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Ernest Dunklaw, 23, Lincoln, Neb., was driving a 1952 Ford convertible pulling the trailer with the plane and was headed east on Highway 50, and a 1954 Chevrolet truck driven by Fred Koehler, 38, Kansas City, was headed west on the highway when the trailer was sidwiped and damaged.

Trooper Pete Stohr of the State Highway Patrol reported Dunklaw stated he saw the approaching truck and tried to pull from the highway, succeeding in getting the car off the pavement but the trailer did not get off in time. Trooper Stohr reported Koehler was headed west and had come out of Sedalia on the old Highway, the Main Street road, and turned onto Highway 50 heading west at the junction just before the accident occurred.

The frame of the trailer was broken and a portion of the antique plane damaged. No damage resulted to the car driven by Dunklaw while there was some damage to the left side of the truck.

Koehler was taken into custody by Trooper Stohr and detained in the Pettis County jail.

Charges of careless and imprudent driving were filed in the Magistrate Court by Judge Frank T. Armstrong, Wednesday morning by Prosecuting Attorney Harold Barick, against Koehler.

Koehler furnished a $500 bond for his appearance in Magistrate Court on Tuesday morning, July 19.

Says Suspension On Dixon-Yates Hearing Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong of the Securities and Exchange Commission testified today that suspension of a hearing on Dixon-Yates financing was requested by Sherman Adams, assistant to the President.

Armstrong added that Adams said the suspension was desired to permit government attorneys to decide whether to intervene in the financing case.

Armstrong said the administration lawyers were considering whether to raise objections to further testimony by Duncan R. Linsley, vice chairman of the First Boston Corp., financial agent for Dixon-Yates, and Adolph Wenzel, a First Boston vice president.

Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn.) of a Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee investigating the Dixon-Yates contract negotiations has implied the suspension was to prevent testimony by First Boston officials from developing before the House of Representatives acted on a 6½ million dollar appropriation to build a transmission line.

Armstrong refused to answer any such questions yesterday, in the face of firm demands from Kefauver that he do so. Armstrong took the stand that the questions involved privileged and confidential administrative affairs which he could not discuss under White House orders.

He said today, however, that he had been advised by Atty. Gen. Brownell that he could answer questions about whether any suggestions for suspension were made.

Dog Owners Liable For Arrest Unless Dog Tag Purchased

Dog owners who have neglected getting dog tags for their pets are now subject to be arrested and prosecuted for failure to obtain the annual dog license.

Poundmaster C. D. Weathers recently completed a complete canvass of the city making a door to door call to collect the tax. Some dog owners were not at their homes and as a result they must contact either the Poundmaster of the City Clerk and obtain the necessary dog tag.

Dogs which are picked up by the Poundmaster for not having a license tag will be held several days and then will be destroyed.

Mrs. Hobby Resigns Her Post Today

Resignation Comes As No Surprise To Most Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby today resigned as secretary of welfare effective Aug. 1.

President Eisenhower picked Marion B. Folsom, now undersecretary of the treasury, to succeed her.

The President called a special news conference to make the announcement, and, in an emotion-packed scene, paid warm tribute to Mrs. Hobby as she sat by his side in the conference room.

On her part, the retiring Cabinet officer told Eisenhower that as he prepares to go to the Big Four conference at Geneva "everyone of us will be praying" the sessions will lead to a "truly universal peace."

The President and Mrs. Hobby entered the conference room together.

Mrs. Hobby's resignation had long been expected, and the President apparently took it for granted that everyone knew that was the purpose of the conference. Without ever formally announcing her resignation, Eisenhower turned to Mrs. Hobby and remarked solemnly:

"Oveta, this is a very sad day."

The President said his mind at the moment went back to a day in 1942 when Mrs. Hobby arrived in London to take command of the Women's Army Corps.

Eisenhower, at that time, was preparing to lead the Allied forces against Hitler's armies.

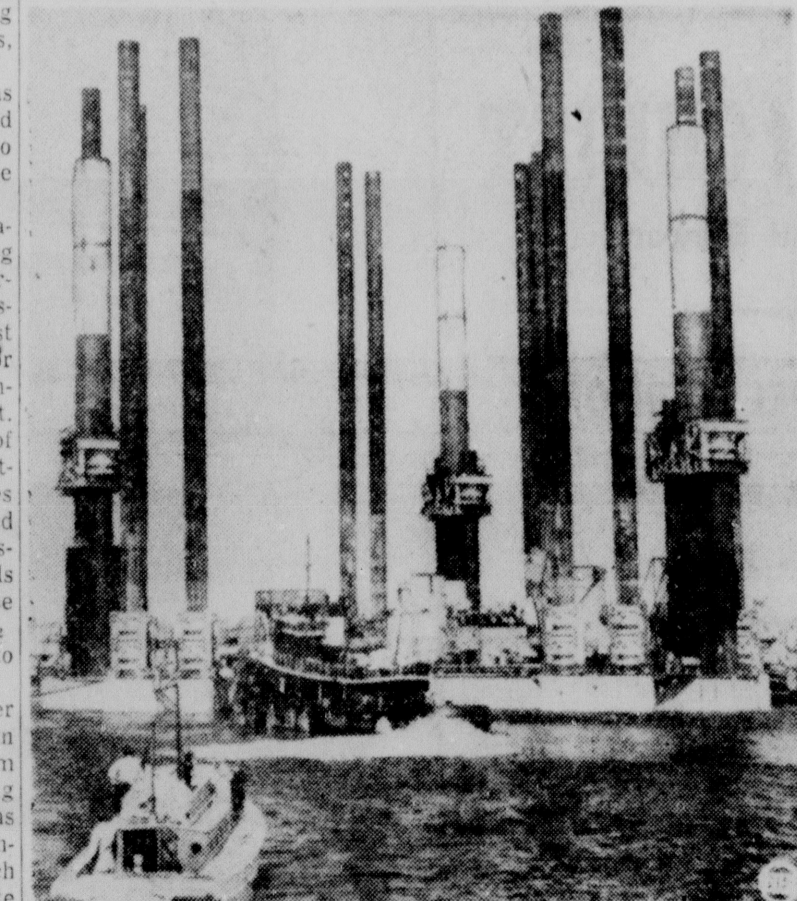

LaMonte Home Is Damaged By Explosion

An explosion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Noel Snow, LaMonte, caused considerable damage early Tuesday evening. The blast was reported to have blown the cellar door over the top of the house, shattered the kitchen windows, and to have broken the kitchen door.

The blast was ignited by gasoline, which had been poured on the cellar steps for the purpose of killing termites, and a spark from the electric water pump located in the cellar of the house. It did not go into a blaze.

Snow and his wife were sitting in the living room of the house when the blast occurred. They were both shaken by the explosion. Other houses in the area were shaken by the heavy blast.

No one was injured in the explosion.

Washington School Project Awarded by Sedalia Board

Involves Contract, Purpose--

School Board Members Clash With Citizens' Advisory Group

By DICK HOFFMAN

Feelings clashed at the regular July meeting of the city Board of Education Tuesday night over a matter of policy in the awarding of contracts.

With members of the Citizens' Advisory Committee disagreeing in principle, three members of the board lined up against awarding school contracts to any members of the Citizens committee assigned to regularly sit in on board meetings, or to their families.

A small group of Citizens members has been sitting in on the board meetings since the group's formation as a permanent organization following the school tax levy election.

A member of the board motioned to award the purchase of 11 typewriters to one Sedalia firm instead of two as has been done in the past because the second firm was related to a Citizens Committee member, allegedly part of a "watchdog" committee to "breath down my back."

Charles Hurtt, Democratic board member, read a statement in which he opposed awarding any school contracts to members or their families of a "watchdog" committee in line with board policy of not awarding contracts to board members themselves and their families. He was supported by Board President William F. Brown, and Harry Brougher, both Democratic members.

The Citizens delegation, sitting in as spectators, denied any "watchdog" purpose when given the floor, and disputed the legitimacy of denying contracts on that basis.

The issue was the first on which the board has split since the last election and President Brown moved to table the motion until the full board and County Superintendent of Schools C. F. Scotten could be present at the regular August meeting. A Republican member, V. A. Siegel, was not present. Forrester Benner and Ed Kehde were in favor of awarding the contracts to two firms. They did not take an active part in the discussion.

The discussion progressed to the legitimacy of the citizens group as an organization since the tax levy had been passed and the bond issue was not yet ready for an organized campaign.

Brown declared the group should not have organized on a permanent basis and that an organized program to sit in on board meetings was "sowing seeds of distrust" against the board's integrity and although the group's motives may be good, he said, it is wrong in principle.

Mrs. Charles Hofheins, Citizens president and a frequent spectator at the board meetings, denied this saying Citizens groups were organized for many different purposes throughout the country on local, state and national levels and had proved useful. George Lockett, Citizens committee member, advising the board to make use of the Citizens instead of resenting them as an intrusion.

Mrs. Hofheins reminded the board that her committee had been invited to attend board meetings by past-president A. L. Hawkins, Sr., along with all other interested Sedalians. Brown and Hurtt protested that this invitation had been meant for the entire group and not for a "watchdog" committee or "pressure group" who thereby lost their "private citizen" status and eligibility for contracts.

County Court Okays Ten Road Projects

Blacktop, Gravel Contracts Total More Than $23,000

The county court approved ten road projects Tuesday with a total of $23,786.42 awarded in contracts.

The Howard Construction Co. received three contracts on bids for bituminous road surfacing projects. These were for projects 55-7, 55-14 and 55-15. This was not a combination bid, however the combined total of the savings on these three bids was $411.74.

In road bill 55-7, Howard will receive $2,641.86 for bituminous surfacing of one mile of road located approximately three miles northwest of Sedalia.

Road project 55-14 calls for Howard to resurface one and one-half miles approximately three miles east of Sedalia at a cost of $2,906.02.

Project 55-15 is for one mile of surfacing located approximately three miles southeast of Sedalia. This is for $2,641.86.

The Menefee Construction Co. received the following six contracts, all for gravel surfacing projects within the county:

Under road bill 55-6 Menefee got the contract with a bid of $2,613.60. This road runs for two miles, approximately 2½ miles southwest of Sedalia.

In road bill 55-8 the bid was for $2,390.85 for surfacing 1.75 miles, approximately six miles southwest of Sedalia.

Road bill 55-9 is for surfacing of four miles, running approximately two miles southwest of Sedalia for $6,336.

The bid of $1,639.44 was accepted for surfacing 1.2 miles of road running approximately two miles southwest of Green Ridge under bill 55-10.

Another road contract, 55-11, was awarded for $1,449, which runs for one mile, located approximately one mile southwest of Green Ridge.

The last of the Menefee contracts was for 55-13, which amounted to $2,390.85 for 1.75 miles running approximately one mile north of Longwood.

The last contract of the day was awarded to the Vincil Bishop Construction Co. for road project 55-12. This is also a gravel surfacing contract and it runs for 1.4 miles approximately two miles northeast of Bahner.

Refuse Testimony On Communist Members

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two New York City newspapermen refused today to tell Senate investigators whether they ever had been members of the Communist party. A Vermont broadcaster said he had been a party member back in 1937.

The broadcaster, Charles S. Lewis of Burlington, Vt., testified that he later was put in charge of overseas radio broadcasts by the Voice of America and that he supervised radio operations in Germany after World War II.

The newspapermen, David A. Gordon and Melvin A. Barnett, swore that they are not now Communists but relied on their privileges against possible self-incrimination in refusing to say whether they had been party members when they worked for the Brooklyn Eagle with Lewis in the 30s.

All But One of Fires Now Under Control

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All but one of five forest fires which together blackened 24,083 acres in three Western states were reported under control this morning.

The remaining blaze, one which has ravaged slightly less than 20,000 acres in the Prescott National Forest of Arizona, was expected to be in hand shortly. Only one area in the northeast tongue of that fire still was giving firefighters trouble Tuesday night.

Hubbard School Cafeteria Goes Into the Red

The Sedalia Board of Education accepted the bid of Sievers Construction Co. for the construction of two additional classrooms and the enlargement of the cafeteria at Washington School at its regular July meeting Tuesday night at Smith-Cotton High School.

The four bidding firms and their bids were: Bonnot Construction Co., Uman, Mo., $81,000; Dean Construction Co., $67,800; Cramer-Schrader Construction Co., $64,630; and Sievers Construction Co., $62,537.

This required some reshuffling of financial arrangements after accepting the Sievers bid since it was slightly higher than the budgeted cost. The board's deposit of $18,230 on the work was voted increased to $25,000. A federal grant has been approved for the project in the amount of $41,870 to be paid in installments before, during and after the work. The board is depositing a safety margin in case of minor change orders in the specifications.

The construction will begin pending the approval of the federal government and the United States District Engineer, Elias P. Neuman, St. Louis, who will inspect the construction and give final approval.

The board also voted last night to pull Hubbard School's cafeteria out of the red.

The school lunch room wound up with outstanding bills amounting to $848.89. The board paid a deficit last year of $305.25 and Dr. Hunt reports he advised Principal Beverly Foster that the lunch room should be closed as it was losing money daily.

However, Dr. Hunt said, Foster believed he could work something out to make the lunch room pay. In March it was closed down and replaced by a snack bar which will continue to operate next year. While Foster did not request the board pay off the bills, this was done rather than cut into other Hubbard funds.

The following resignations were accepted by the board: A. L. Wilson, Horace Mann teacher; Jane Wilson, Washington teacher; Marguerite Reynolds, commerce teacher, Hubbard High; Lucille Cotterman, Smith-Cotton secretary, effective Aug. 1; Dorothy Ann Reed, Mark Twain music teacher; and Mrs. Jerry Hudson, Smith-Cotton home economics teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will teach in Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Mrs. Cotterman is moving to Florida; Mrs. Hudson is expecting a baby; Miss Reed will teach in Johnson County, Kan.; and Mrs. Reynolds did not state a reason.

Election of a secretary for Horace Mann was tabled. Mrs. Mary Kennon was transferred from Horace Mann to Smith-Cotton.

Miss Jean Anderson was approved as a music teacher pending her release from the Fredericktown system. Mrs. Cecil Wyett was approved as a home economics teacher at the high school.

Dr. Hunt reported there are still four vacancies including two elementary art teachers, which he said are proving hard to fill, and two other positions.

Announce Plan For Atomic Sales

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission today announced plans for the first government sale of atomic-produced electric energy and said it would be introduced into the Niagara-Mohawk Power Corp.'s public utility system "in the near future."

The commission said it has set a price of 3 mills a kilowatt-hour after studying recommendations of interested public power organizations and after consulting with the Federal Power Commission.

As the AEC explained it, steam from a prototype submarine reactor at West Milton, N.Y., will be channeled into a 10,000-kilowatt turbine generator to produce power which will be sold by the AEC to Niagara-Mohawk.

The generator was installed and will be operated by the General Electric Co. at no cost to the government, the AEC said. The reactor is a prototype of that which is to be installed in the Sea Wolf, this country's second atomic submarine scheduled for launching at Groton, Conn., on July 21.

AEC said the arrangement under which the power will be marketed by Niagara-Mohawk is a temporary one, pending determination whether any or all of three public power units which have expressed an interest in buying the energy can arrange for its transmission to their systems.

It identified these as the Delaware County Rural Electric Cooperative, Delhi, N. Y., the City of Iliou, N. Y., and the city of Holyoke, Mass.

Government Releases More Polio Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has released enough Salk vaccine for another 720,000 antipolio shots.

The Public Health Service action yesterday brought the clearance of vaccine supplies in less than a week to over one million cubic centimeters. Last Friday, the government freed 300,000 units. One c.c. of vaccine is used in a single antipolio shot.

But even with the release of the 720,000 c.c.'s of vaccine made by Eli Lilly & Co., Indianapolis, the total falls far short of the six million shots the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said on June 24 it would need to complete the free two-shot inoculation of first and second-grade children.

Soviet Russia is sending nine delegates, headed by the Rev. Jacob Zhidkov, chairman of the Baptist Council of the U. S. S. R. Zhidkov is already here as one of the high Russian churchmen touring Britain as guests of the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher.

The other Russian delegates left Moscow this morning by air for London.

About Town

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Waisner and children, Sedalia, and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McKeehan, LaMonte, have returned home from a ten-day vacation. They visited Mr. McKeehan's sister, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Larimore, Lima, Ohio, their daughter and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Perdue and family, Akron, Ohio, Dennis, Phyllis and Patty accompanied them home and will spend the remainder of the summer here.

Reno Johnson, 110½ West Fifth, left Saturday for Colorado Springs to spend his vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cartwright. Mr. and Mrs. Cartwright were residents of Sedalia until a year ago when they moved to Colorado.

Mrs. Susie Benz, Calixico, Calif., is spending several weeks with her cousin, Mrs. M. D. Weathers and Mr. Weathers of Weathers' Kort.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bordoli, 417 West Fourth, had as weekend guests her sister, Mrs. Howard Snell, and Mr. Snell, Kansas City, and the four of them attended the closing performance of the J-Bar-H rodeo at Camdenton, then went to a popular lake of the Ozarks resort to spend the week fishing.

Miss Jeannette Candiotti, 409 West Fourth, is home from a vacation trip to San Antonio and other points in Texas where she spent her vacation visiting relatives.

In World War I a huge mine field containing more than 70,000 mines was laid from the Orkney Islands of Great Britain to the coast of Norway by England and the United States in an effort to control submarines.

Applauds Ike Position As Honorable

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) applauded today as an "honorable position" President Eisenhower's reported assurance he will make no commitments on Asia at the Geneva conference.

Humphrey, a Senate Foreign Relations Committee member critical of some administration international policies, said in an interview:

"I don't want to see the Soviet Union built up into the position of becoming a broker for Asian countries. We should hold the Soviets accountable for the violations of the truces in Korea and Viet Nam, which they participated in making."

"But it would not be the honorable thing for the Big Four to reach any decision on Asia in the absence of the Asians."

Secretary of State Dulles, meanwhile, arranged to take off today with a party of top advisers for Paris, where he and the British and French foreign ministers will complete Western strategy for dealing with Soviet leaders in the Big Four summit talks opening Monday.

Saturday, after a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Council, Dulles expects to go on to Geneva. Eisenhower, leaving Washington Friday night after a nationwide radio and television broadcast, is scheduled to reach Geneva Saturday night.

Eisenhower conferred with congressional leaders yesterday and reportedly emphasized that he considers the Geneva meeting to be a conference on European problems and on such global matters as arms reduction which are of direct concern to the four great powers.

Some members of Congress who sat in on that briefing reported that Eisenhower said he will not make any commitments on Asia. It is generally expected here that Soviet Premier Bulganin will raise Far Eastern questions at least to the extent of trying to get agreement from the Western Powers to a later meeting with Red China. Eisenhower and Dulles do not expect to agree to a Red China conference.

Denies Giving Koenig Racing Information

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., (AP)—Frank Politan of Indianapolis, Ind., has denied to police that he supplied horse racing results to J. Fred Koenig, victim of a gang-style murder last month.

Politan was released within 30 minutes after he voluntarily came here yesterday to be questioned by police investigating the slaying.

Chief of Police George Dowling said Politan admitted running a dice game in a private club but denied reports he headed the racing information service from which Koenig bought information to supply area handbooks.

Politan was quoted as saying he once met Koenig at Hialeah race track near Miami, Fla.

Koenig, gambler and convicted black market whisky dealer, was found shot to death and his body stuffed into the trunk of his car on an East St. Louis street.

International Officer Speaks—

Joint Installation Is Held By Optimists and Opti-Mrs.

"To think only the best, to work only for the best and expect only the best" was the part of the Optimist Creed chosen by Justin Patsch, Lieutenant-Governor of Optimist International in his talk Tuesday noon at the joint meeting of the Optimist Club and the Opti-Mrs. Club, held at the Bothwell Hotel.

It takes several things to make a good service club, Lt. Gov. Patsch said. It takes good weekly meetings, good programs and optimism. He referred to the teenage square dances who put on an exhibition dance just before his talk. "They smiled all the time they danced," he said. It would be a better world if everybody was like that.

He went on to say that a civic club should take an interest in its community and its country, and the Optimist has a name to start with that should make it go far.

Doing for others is part of the job, especially for boys and the Sedalia Club is noted for its boys work, he said. Optimism comes from the soul and the heart and makes this a better world to live in, he pointed out. As individuals and as a club it is the duty of Optimists to spread optimism—promise yourself, he advised, to think only the best and set a goal, then make sure you are going to make that goal.

The meeting was opened by the president, Dr. K. L. Holdren, with invocation by the Rev. Robert Reinhardt. Pep singing of Optimist songs was led by Charles Hanna with Miss Lillian Fox as the accompanist.

New officers of both the Optimist Club and Opti-Mrs. Club were installed by Lt. Gov. Patsch. Optimist officers installed were Charles Hurtt, president; Dr. Donald Kirby, first vice-president; Claude Boul, second vice-president; Dr. J. W. Bryden, secretary-treasurer; Fred Arbogast, Dr. Charles Blaich, Milton Jones, Dr. K. L. Holdren, Dr. Russell Drenon and Dr. Chester Kirkpatrick, directors. Opti-Mrs. officers installed were Mrs. Edith Rissler, president; Mrs. Don Kirby, vice-president; Mrs. Russell Drenon, secretary, and Mrs. Frank Mehl, treasurer.

Accompanying Lt. Gov. Patsch to Sedalia was Bill Piper of Kansas City.

Guests introduced were Mrs. Ira DeJarnet, Richard Deason, Mrs. Harold Barrick, Mrs. Dimmitt Hoffman, Mrs. Ben Klein, Mrs.

Youngsters Know About Problem Of Delinquency

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If you want to know what causes juvenile delinquency, just ask the kids. They've got all the answers.

Only they call it "parental delinquency."

Some of the 2,500 youths attending the 43rd International Christian Endeavor Conference here drew up a list of charges on the delinquency problem yesterday.

Here are sample comments:

Larry Hock, 15, Portland, Ore.: "There's too much emphasis on those child care books which tell parents to let the kids do as they please. After a while, parents get in the habit of not caring what their children are doing."

Robert Dean, 16, Columbus: "Children respect the advice of their parents. But some parents don't bother with any advice. If they don't teach what is right, then their kids may turn out wrong."

John Breedveld, 18, Kalamazoo, Mich.: "Some parents set bad examples. When a child grows up, he has to talk over his problems with someone. If he feels he cannot go to his parents, he joins a gang and talks his problems over with the wrong kind of people."

Myrna George, 18, Woodlake, Calif.: "Youngsters sometimes get too much attention at home. Kids want to do something for themselves once in a while."

Educational Change

ORANGE, Tex. (AP)—Three years ago, the school board decided it might as well close the Manley Elementary school because there just weren't enough pupils to keep it going. They didn't though, and this year reported Manley was the most over-populated school in the city.

Mason said the board will issue an order increasing and adjusting assessments on as "fair and equitable a basis as possible."

Vermont TV Official To Testify for Red Investigating Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Vermont television man who has acknowledged brief membership in the Communist party was among witnesses called today by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

He is Charles Lewis, public affairs director of WCAX-TV in Burlington, Vt., who has said he joined the Communist party in 1937 and "quit two or three months later because I had my nose full."

After his name was mentioned in previous testimony, Lewis volunteered to appear before the subcommittee and said "I'll tell everything I know."

Other scheduled witnesses at a public hearing of the subcommittee include two New York Times newsmen, a New York Daily News reporter, and the aviation editor of the New York Herald-Tribune.

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss.) said the hearing was called to follow up testimony received by the subcommittee June 23-29 from Winston M. Burdett and others in a continuing study of alleged Communist activities. He says the subcommittee is not investigating the press.

Cheering Crowd Gives Nehru Wild Welcome On World Tour Return

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru returned home today to a riotous welcome which dazed diplomats who came to the airport to greet him.

A crowd of about 3,000 persons broke through police barriers with what appeared to be prearranged ease to surround Nehru, tossing flowers and garlands wildly in his direction.

The crowd pushed aside most diplomats who had gone to the airfield to welcome the Prime Minister back from his 37-day visit to Russia and other European countries. Sweat-drenched in 100 degree weather, many left without shaking Nehru's hand.

Nehru, briefly angered at the crowds, also appeared dazed, as he rode away in an open car.

The road to the airport and the field itself were heavily guarded by special police, but police at the field gave only token opposition to the rush of the crowd.

Three Deaths From Shots By Irritated Man

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—A drinking truck driver, irritated by the "laughing and giggling" of fellow patrons, shot two couples in the head in a neighborhood tavern last night, state police reported.

Two women and a man were killed. Another man was near death today.

Kenneth Kuzner, 30, of Detroit, was seized in his truck a short time later near Pontiac, 25 miles from the scene. Police said he readily admitted the shootings and could give no explanation except the irritation other patrons caused him. They said he had been drinking but was not drunk.

"I was just out for a good time," police quoted him as saying.

Kuzner told officers the four victims were "total strangers."

They were sitting together in a booth at Edna's Bar and Restaurant at suburban Grand Blanc when Kuzner walked in.

State police said Kuzner sat stoically at the bar drinking a beer. When he finished, they said, he went to a rest room, came out and strode up to the two couples' booth, spoke not a word and began firing point blank with a .38-caliber automatic.

Said Farah, 26, of Flint, and his wife Jeannine died minutes later. Farah belonged to a prominent Flint family that operates a grocery chain.

Mrs. Margaret S. Cross, 37, a divorcee, died two hours later in a Flint hospital.

James Dollars, 26, who was with Mrs. Cross, was reported in a critical condition. He is a Flint Junior College student.

State police said the four were shot with a .38 caliber automatic.

Mrs. Smiley said the four victims had not been noisy and had done "absolutely nothing" to provoke the shootings.

Kuzner was returned to Flint for further questioning early today.

Submarine Crewman On Trial for Giving Secret Information

PORTSMOUTH, England (AP)—A seaman in Britain's submarine service went on trial behind closed doors today, charged with revealing secret information.

Ordering the room cleared of spectators for the court-martial, a senior naval officer said, "Certain evidence has a security classification." There has been no indication whether a foreign government is involved.

The defendant is Able Seaman Michael Ronald Andrews. He is charged with "failure to heed a warning that he should not reveal certain information which had come to him in the performance of his duties."

Warm, Pleasant Air To Last Another Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Warm and fairly pleasant summer weather was the outlook again today for most sections of the nation.

Most of the widespread thunderstorm activity over the southeastern states has diminished although light showers continued during the night over the Carolinas. Showers also were reported in the Missouri River Valley.

Heaviest rainfall during the night was nearly 2 inches at Augusta, Ga., and nearly 1 inch at Richmond, Va.

Hot and rather muggy weather prevailed over much of the southland with temperatures during the night in the 90s in the Southwest desert region.

Small Girl Abducted By 13-Year-Old Boy

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—Police said a 13-year-old inmate of a children's home admitted carrying 4-year-old Susan Cline into a wooded park, wrestling with her, ripping her clothes and choking her. She suffered a broken leg in the scuffle.

She was in satisfactory condition at a hospital today. Held for action under juvenile laws was Harry Avery.

Police Chief Robert Millard said the girl told of being seized by "a boy on a green bicycle" after she had wandered away from her home. Millard said Avery had a bicycle of that color.

Under questioning, Avery told Millard that after wrestling with the girl and choking her he was frightened by her screams. He grabbed up the panties he had ripped from her and fled.

The girl, moaning and screaming in pain, was found by a neighbor.

Young Mother Is Hanged For Murder

LONDON (AP)—Ruth Ellis, beautiful blonde mother of two children, was hanged today for the Easter Sunday murder of the lover who jilted her.

The 28-year-old divorcee, a former model and night club hostess, was the 14th woman to be hanged in Britain this century and the third since World War II. Her sentencing revived a nationwide controversy over capital punishment which continued unabated today.

A crowd of 1,000 persons—some weeping, others laughing—stood in the grimy north London street outside the ivy-covered, red-brick Holloway Prison as hangman Albert Pierrepoint pulled the death trap.

Its slam resounded through the building, touching off hysterical cries from the other inmates.

Reports from inside the prison said the icy calm Mrs. Ellis had maintained during her trial in June and ever since finally broke last night. Prison sources said she sobbed herself to sleep, screaming, "I don't want to die."

The matrons let her sleep until the last minute, foregoing the usual 6:30 waking hour.

Earlier in the night she had said goodbye to her mother and father, who reported she was resigned to her fate. The woman had refused to appeal for mercy. Home Secretary Gwilym Lloyd-George, the only man who can recommend royal clemency, earlier this week turned down petitions signed by more than 25,000 persons.

Mrs. Ellis at her trial admitted tracking her lover, 25-year-old David Blakely, to a London bar and pumping four bullets into him. Claiming her jealousy had disturbed her emotions, she tried to get the murder charge reduced to manslaughter. The court threw out that defense and a jury of 10 men and two women found her guilty June 21, after only 24 minutes of deliberation.

Admits Rape-Slaying Of Woman and Child

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—An unemployed taxi driver has admitted the rape slayings of his sister-in-law and her 19-month-old daughter, police say.

Joseph Reade, 26, who described himself as a "damn maniac," was to be arraigned in City Court today on two counts of first-degree murder.

The stocky, sandy-haired Reade signed a statement, police said last night, admitting he strangled and beat to death Mrs. Beverly Reade, 26, and her daughter Cheryl Lynn early yesterday.

Sen. Johnson Is Keeping Up With Events In Bed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, a heart attack only 11 days behind him, is again beginning to keep in close touch with developments in the Senate, where he normally serves as Democratic leader.

Johnson is still confined to bed at the Naval Medical Center in suburban Bethesda, Md. Whatever activity he undertakes is under the careful eye of doctors treating him for a heart attack they have termed "moderately severe."

But through members of his immediate family, a few aides and one or two Senate colleagues who are permitted to visit him, the Texas senator keeps abreast of developments.

He reads the newspapers and some selected correspondence previously checked over by assistants. A television set has been placed in his room. A kind of censorship over it, as well as the newspapers, is exercised by his wife Lady Bird. She has been near him constantly since he entered the hospital.

Workers Authorize U-nion to Call Strike At Studebaker Plant

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—It was up to the CIO United Auto Workers negotiators today to say whether there will be a strike at the Studebaker plant of the Studebaker-Packard Corp. where nearly 1,800 workers were laid off recently.

Neil Moorlag, financial secretary of Local 5, CIO-UAW, said 82 per cent of the 7,010 workers voting last night favored giving their negotiators such authority. The local plant employs about 9,000.

Core of the dispute is the "production standard" clause of the contract. The union contends the wording of the clause does not permit the layoffs. The company contends it does.

Two women secretaries of Johnson's office staff have set up shop in a room near Johnson's own 16th floor suite. They are on duty in turns during the day, alternating between the hospital and the Capitol.

Request Permission To Visit Jews Living In Iron Curtain Areas

FALLSBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—The Rabbinical Council of America, the nation's major Orthodox rabbinic organization, has asked the Soviet Embassy in Washington for permission to send a delegation of rabbis to visit Jews in the Soviet Union.

The president of the council, Rabbi David B. Hollander, announced the move yesterday and said the Soviet Embassy has asked for full details of the proposed trip. Addressing the council's 19th annual convention which continues through tomorrow, he indicated he thinks the Soviets may permit the trip.

Russian Writer Attends US Music Festival In a Daze

STRATFORD, Conn. (AP)—With pomp and spangles, show business dedicated a new shrine last night to playwright William Shakespeare, but the main center of excitement was a somewhat baffled, bothered journalist named Eugene Litoshko.

Litoshko, a correspondent of Moscow's newspaper Pravda, got a special okay from the State Department to travel here from New York after the Bridgeport Sunday Herald suggested the visit as a symbol of cultural exchange between this country and Russia.

Airborne Team Ends Historic Troop Switch To Japanese Bases

ASHIYA, Japan (AP)—The 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team completed its history-making aerial transfer of 3,817 paratroopers to Japan today.

The 43rd and last C124 transport in the 18th Air Force aerial chain from Ft. Campbell landed at 6:01 a.m., two hours ahead of schedule.

Capt. Francis Burnett, Melrose, Mass., was the pilot.

From Ashiya the troops are being delivered by train to three camps less than 100 miles apart on Kyushu Island.

Col. Ennis L. Johnson, of Jamestown, S.D., moved his command post for the 63rd Troop Carrier Wing operation from Ashiya to Itazuke, from which 3,100 troops of the 187th are being flown to Ft. Bragg, N.C.

That phase of Operation Gyroscope began yesterday and some 13 C124s have departed for the States.

Works Hard For Civil Defense--

German-Born Housewife Has All-Out Interest In Defense

LEXINGTON, Ky. — (NEA) — "Supposin'."

That's what they've named a game here in Kentucky's hill country. It's hard for most people to play, for the setting and rules require imagination.

But it takes no "supposin'" for attractive Mrs. Hella Herzner Ahren, Maybe that's why she's known as one of the steadiest and most serious of Kentucky's Ground Observer Corps volunteers.

Each week she faithfully works three hours in the Lexington Air Defense Filter Center. Today when 29-year-old Mrs. Ahren answers the phone at her job, she says:

"Air Defense. Go Ahead!" But 11 years ago it was different. Then she cried into the phone:

"Luftverteidigung!" This meant about the same thing, except the attack was real.

For when she was 18, Hella was drafted from her native town of Erlangen, in the Bavarian section of Germany, to become a ground observer and work in the Nuremberg filter center.

That was in 1944 during the final stages of the allied air onslaughts against Hitler's Reich. Hella's job took her through as many as 10 major raids a day.

She learned the full meaning of the horror of an air bombing. Once she was blown completely out of the building while working. A bomb had landed nearby.

"Some people seem to think two hours a week is too much to give in America," she says, "but we often had to work two days at a time and then would get one day off if we were lucky."

Hella's coming to America started with a postwar job with the American Army. There she met her husband, Col. John F. Ahren, who is now the senior Army advisor to the Kentucky National Guard.

He arranged for her to come to the U.S., where they were married. When she heard of their arrival in Lexington that there was need for Ground Observer Corps volunteers in the filter center, she immediately applied.

"She is one of our best workers," declares Mrs. Josephine Emrath, the filter center's civilian administrative supervisor. "It's probably because nobody has to persuade her that an air attack can come, and what it can do."

Hella well remembers that a portly potentate named Hermann Goering once told her people that if Germany ever came under attack by allied bombers, "my name is Mayer."

"It never pays to be sure," she says.

So to help protect her new foster home, America, she plays "Supposin'." But because she cannot forget the deadly attacks that did come to her former home, she hopes more than anyone else that this game will always be make-believe.

Give the Kids Salt in Hot Summer Heat

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

It's not the heat, it's the humidity.

How many times every summer we hear this old gripe. Of course it's true, too. It is the humidity that makes hot weather so uncomfortable.

The children are hot and cranky, mother is damp and irritable, and Dad comes home wilted down and exhausted.

In hot weather we all perspire. The hotter the weather the more sweat pours out on our skin. The sweat evaporates and the process of evaporation cools the body. This is nature's way of keeping the body temperature constant even when the weather is very hot.

If the climate is hot and dry (that is, the humidity low) the sweat evaporates quickly — so quickly that you may not even feel damp. However, when the humidity is high the air is already so full of moisture that the sweat evaporates slowly. Your skin stays damp and you feel uncomfortable because your body isn't cooled by the evaporation of the sweat.

The hotter it is, the more you sweat. The sweating means you are losing water through your skin. Your body becomes dry on the inside and you have the urge to drink.

But sweat isn't just plain water. Sweat contains a lot of salt.

In hot weather the tired cranky feeling is due to the loss of salt from your body. If the humidity is high, you feel wet and sticky as well as irritable. If the climate is dry you're not sticky and wet with perspiration, but you get tired and listless just the same.

If you take extra salt, you will feel better.

Just ordinary table salt will do. A teaspoonful of common salt three times a day with a full glass of water will restore to your body both the fluid and salt you lose in perspiration.

It's a bit hard to swallow plain salt. It doesn't taste very good.

Lie Awake Last Night?

because of stomach acid?

Do This Tonight:

Why let excess stomach acidity keep you tossing and turning in a vain attempt to sleep? Do as millions do—take 2 Tums as a "night cap." See if you don't fall asleep more easily—feel fresher in the morning. Tums neutralize excess acid almost before it starts. Always keep Tums handy to counteract gas, acid indigestion—day or night. Get a handy roll today.

The salt tablets on the market are made to taste better than plain salt. Also most of the salt tablets contain a mixture of salts more nearly like the body salts you lose in sweat.

How many salt tablets you need depends upon how hot it is.

If you take salt tablets yourself and give them to your children during very hot weather, you'll find you get through the very hot spells with much better family dispositions.

Tanker Plane Falls, Taking Lives of Ten

MERCED, Calif. (AP) — Ten men died today as a four-engine "tanker" plane crashed after leaving Castle Air Force Base near here. There were no survivors.

Fire broke out on the plane as it reached an altitude of about 1,500 feet. It crashed within a moment or two, exploded as it hit the ground, and was demolished.

The flames fired the grain field into which the plane fell.

The tanker, a KC97G military version of the Stratocruiser, was on a routine refueling mission from Castle AFB near Merced.

The crash occurred about 15 miles northwest of Merced, near the community of Cressey.

The refueler was to have intercepted a flight of bombers on a fueling test.

The first report on the crash was a telephone call to the Sheriff's Office from the rancher on whose property the plane fell.

"Bodies were strewn all over the field," he said.

The tankers are used to refuel jet bombers and interceptors, and can carry more than 6,000 gallons of jet fuel.

They are 117 feet long, with a wingspread of 141 feet. One of the four engines fell in a field about a mile from the plane wreckage.

The explosion jarred houses in Modesto, 28 miles away, and the jolt felt like an earthquake to residents of El Capitan and Cressey, about five miles from the crash.

a new Ford hard-top as a driver-training car was accepted by the board. A motion to trade in eight standard typewriters for nine new ones and two electric machines was tabled. (See separate story on Page 1.)

A letter from the North Side Citizens Association signed by Mrs. Lucy Ratzburg, secretary, was read to the board requesting immediate integration in the Sedalia school system. Reading of a letter from Beverly Foster, Hubbard principal, was tabled until the August meeting.

Another major problem the board worked on Tuesday night was bus service for the school children in the Country Club and Woodlawn areas. Last year a private firm operated a bus for them to the Smithton schools. They will not do so next year. These children must cross the highway and railroad tracks on their way to school.

Board president William F. Brown appointed a committee of Harry Brougher, Forrest Benner and Charles Hurt to investigate the problem and make a recommendation at the August meeting.

Back In Jail After Freedom On Cash Bond

OMAHA (AP)—Two men known for their reticence on almost any subject sat silently in jail today—one in Omaha and one in Las Vegas—while police tried again to trace the trail of $87,000, much of it in $100 bills.

Jailed were Frank Ellsworth, 36, and Ray Wilson, 33, both of whom are free on bail on robbery charges in other cities. Ellsworth is from Omaha, Wilson was Tulsa, Okla., as his home town.

The new warrants charge murder in the strangulation death of Mrs. Lulubel Hagar Rossman in a Philadelphia hotel on the Fourth of July.

The story centers around $100 bills.

A spending spree in Las Vegas gambling establishments by Ellsworth and Wilson brought onto the gambling tables a number of $100 bills that excited the suspicions of croupiers and police alike.

Ellsworth and Wilson went into the Las Vegas jail on suspicion of robbery charges.

But police from New York and other cities were unable to link up the $100 bills and the rest of the $87,000 the two had with any robbery they knew of. Ellsworth got out of the Las Vegas jail first and got the money back. He left for Omaha while Wilson was still in jail.

Chamber to Act As Go-Between For Fair Week

The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce will again serve as a clearing house for the Missouri State Fair. Hotels and motels of the city are already filled and inquiries are coming in to the chamber about rooms for Fair week.

The Chamber of Commerce office will not make their own choice and reservations. When a room has been rented a call to the Chamber of Commerce office would save complications both for the C. of C. those looking for rooms and those having rooms to rent.

As people come into the city during that week they will seek the help of the Chamber both in the city and the information booth at the Fairgrounds in trying to find rooms and the rooms left on the list will be given them.

The rooms will be listed in the order they are called in and rented in the same fashion when they, of course, fit the needs of those wanting the rooms. Those having rooms will be asked to give their name and address, telephone number, the number of rooms they have to rent, whether they are upstairs or downstairs; whether they will take children, if there is private bath or not; whether they have double, single or twin beds.

This year, too, something else has become necessary according to requests for rooms coming in and that is air conditioning. Whether the room is air conditioned or not is listed.

Sedalias who have rooms to rent during the Fair are asked to call the Chamber of Commerce at once.

'Cracker' Interest Wanes . . .

The younger generation has no conception of the toll of lives, eyes, and fingers earlier in the century after the annual celebration of Fourth of July—Independence Day, in Sedalia and throughout the nation. Many have not come any closer to a fireworks display than the supervised ones held every Fair week at the Missouri State Fair grounds.

For over 100 years the fireworks celebration of July 4 accelerated until it was so commercialized it finally developed into one of the most deadly annual events in the nation's history.

Then there was much interest in the familiar neighborhood fireworks parties many of the Sedalia old timers recall. Files of the old Democrat for many July 5 issues record doctors had a busy time salving wounds from powder burns and explosives. On a national scale the casualties finally became so great as to cause public reaction to set in against the sale and use of fireworks. Legislation was passed in states and in cities and towns. There was loose enforcement but of late there has been a tightening up until now it is strange indeed to be awakened in the early hours of the Fourth by the banging of "crackers." Interest in this type of fun has waned, yet Missouri is one of the few states not having a legislative ban against the sale of fireworks.

Nevertheless firecrackers and sundry articles still fascinate a few despite the dangers involved even under parental supervision. Dad and Mom themselves are just as vulnerable to a fireworks mishap now as they were when kids. And then there are a few irresponsible individuals left who somehow delight in obtaining big firecrackers and throwing them into moving automobiles or otherwise tossing them where they may harm some innocent person.

One of the few stories about accidents this year comes from an incident north of Ottaville. Someone in a red car coming in from the north bridge headed toward town is reported to have thrown several large firecrackers or something like time bombs along the road. One landed in a driveway where a family had their fireworks display the night before. A daughter who was cleaning up the debris started to pick up what she thought was a remnant but it exploded before she got her hands on it. However, the blast burned her face, arms and chest painfully and injured her eye.

This is just one instance of what careless tossing around of explosives can do. Probably there'll never be an end to the use of them for so-called entertainment.

May the time never come when the foolhardy will try playing around with atomic firecrackers. In that event there won't be left a handful of people to get out on the highways and kill and maim each other in traffic accidents over the Fourth of July—the national pastime which seems to have superseded the fireworks calamities of yesteryear.

Drew Pearson Says—

McCarthy's Friend White House Adviser

WASHINGTON — Senator McCarthy recently was given a crushing 77-to-4 defeat in his efforts to hamstring and embarrass Ike at the Big Four Conference, but the friends and isms he trained and fostered are a long way from dead in the nation's capital.

Here are three quick news shots which indicate how McCarthyism still thrives in the following places:

1. Right inside the White House — McCarthy's closest congressional friend, ex-Congressman Charles Kersten of Wisconsin, has just been appointed a White House aide at $50 a day.

Kersten, a Republican, was defeated for reelection last fall in the wave of anti-McCarthyism that swept some parts of Wisconsin, and since then has been looking for a job. First he applied to the State Department, but got nowhere.

Now, strangely, he has turned up as $50-a-day adviser to the White House on the direct staff of Nelson Rockefeller, in charge of Eisenhower's psychological warfare. Rockefeller has vigorously opposed McCarthy and all he stood for, and White House insiders say he didn't want to take on the strong McCarthy supporter. However, it was considered good political strategy.

Kersten is the man who brought the quickie divorce case of Kordas vs. Kordas before McCarthy when he was a local Wisconsin judge.

2. Inside the Federal Communications Commission — Some time ago, when Christian L. Rogers, former aide to McCarthy, was appointed assistant to Chairman McConaughy of the FCC, it was hotly denied that Rogers would have any influence.

Already two friends of McCarthy are FCC Commissioners — Robert E. Lee, who helped mastermind McCarthy's below-the-belt campaign against Senator Tydings of Maryland, and John Doerfer of Wisconsin who had McCarthy's support for FCC appointment. On top of this, Rogers, who had been on McCarthy's staff, was appointed assistant to the new chairman.

Despite denials that Rogers would have any influence, he's now slated to fill one of the key positions in the entire FCC—chief of the broadcast bureau.

In charge of the broadcast bureau at present is Curtis Plummer, a Republican from Maine. Plummer, however, was appointed by the Democrats and, although a good Republican, was promoted by the Democrats. Therefore he is suspect, and will be sent "to Siberia," probably in charge of the safety and special radio services.

The man who will take his place, McCarthy's old staff member, will then become the man who rules upon what applicants will receive radio licenses and TV licenses worth millions. It's the most important job in the FCC aside from being a member of the commission itself.

3. Inside the small business administration — The other day Wendell Barnes, a large and perspiring gentleman from Tulsa, Okla., who's now head of the small business administration, was being cross-examined by the Senate civil service committee, busy of late delving into the so-called security risks fired by Eisenhower and the sometimes highhanded manner in which they were fired.

"What is the address of George V. McDavitt?" Barnes was asked.

"Do I have to answer?" the large man from Oklahoma looked almost beseechingly at Senator Olin Johnston of South Carolina, who presided.

"You were asked the question," replied Chairman Johnston.

Barnes reached into his hip-pocket. His hand shook as he pulled out a notebok with the address of George McDavitt at 2101 S Street in Washington.

McDavitt is the chief security officer of the small business administration who, it was claimed, was firing civil service employees as security risks in Nazi fashion merely because he wanted to make room for political friends. His address — which may explain why Barnes was so reluctant to reveal it — was the building owned by the famous American Fascist and anti-Semite, Allen Zoll.

Zoll is founder of the American Patriots, listed on the attorney general's list of subversives as Fascist, and the fact that the security officer charged with scrutinizing alleged security risks in the small business administration appeared to be on good terms with Zoll disturbed the senators — as it did also Barnes.

Zoll's Record
Zoll has quite a record. He picketed radio station WMCA in New York when it refused to permit Father Coughlin to broadcast. He raised money for Merwin K. Hart and for Joe Kamp's Constitutional Educational League. With the cooperation of McCarthy's friend, J. B. Matthews, he published the Educational Guardian. Later, in anonymous co-authorship with Matthews, he published "How Red Is the Federal Council of Churches?" also worked for the Arab cause in regard to Palestine and claimed credit for firing Willard Goslin as superintendent of schools in Pasadena, Calif., as a result of integration. In the 1952 campaign, Zoll hung out in Gerald L. K. Smith's headquarters working for the nomination of General MacArthur.

McDavitt has testified that he first met Zoll in 1949, rented a room in his building in 1954, would not talk about whether his ex-wife once worked for Zoll, said he kept files on 75,000 persons, many of them not in government.

That's how another disciple of McCarthyism is operating in Washington.

Washington Pipeline
Secretary Benson has been predicting privately that the Senate will not act this year on rigid farm supports. . . . Government inspectors have found that some yellow dyes, used in margarine, are harmful to the health. However, margarine producers have come up with a new product, called acetin margarine, which will offer better competition to butter. It won't go rancid, or melt when hot. . . . The Pentagon reports that the famed British Royal Air Force is in bad shape. Because the British have been concentrating on turning out commercial airliners, the RAF actually has fewer dependable fighters now than during the Battle of Britain.

To bolster British air defenses, the United States will soon give the British some of the latest American Sabrejet fighters and B-52 jet bombers.

Bulgarian Will Speak With Most Finality

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The one man at the Big Four conference who evidently has the least authority—Russian Premier Nikolai Bulganin—will nevertheless be able to speak with the greatest finality.

President Eisenhower, Britain's Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Faure may make suggestions on such monumental issues as disarmament and reunification of Germany. To carry through, each in the end will need approval at home.

Not Bulganin. He's in a different position.

Each of the Western Big Three is a member of one of the two or more political parties in his own country, holding his job as the result of democratic elections. Each therefore has to think of the effect of his words on the voters back home.

Further, any far-reaching proposposal by Eisenhower, Eden or Faure would require formal or informal approval, from their parliamentary bodies—Congress in the case of Eisenhower. Only Eden, through his Conservative party, has a majority in his Parliament.

The Democrats, not Eisenhower's Republicans, run both houses of Congress. Faure became premier through a coalition of France's many political parties and could be unseated by a shift in the coalition and a vote of no confidence.

For all these reasons Eisenhower, Eden and Faure have to be sensitive to the thinking at home. It will act as a restraint on all three. It already has on Eisenhower. He has promised Congress he'd do no appeasing at Geneva.

In Russia, with its single Communist party, Bulganin does not owe his job to the popular will but to the party, which numbers perhaps no more than 6 to 10 million out of the 215 million or more people in Russia.

More precisely, he owes his job to the little group of Kremlin Communists who run the party and therefore Russia. The Russian Parliament is a rubber stamp for orders from the Kremlin.

For that reason Bulganin does not have to look over his shoulder at the Russian people or the parliament for anything he says at Geneva. He needs only the approval of the men in the Kremlin.

But, since the Kremlin Communists work as a team and he's their front man at Geneva, he will merely be their spokesman. So it can be taken for granted any offers he makes will have been thought out and approved by the Kremlin beforehand.

So, although Bulganin is not free to make any proposals on his own but only those which have Kremlin approval, he can expect his government to carry through on anything he says unless it serves the Kremlin's purpose to change its mind later.

Your Child's Health—

Epidemic Diarrhea of Infants Is Probably Virus Infection

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Every once in a while during recent years there have been serious outbreaks of a highly fatal diarrhea in new-born infants which has caused great trouble to the nurseries of maternity hospitals. Attempts to find the cause have not been particularly successful.

It is probable, however, that epidemic diarrhea of infants is a virus infection which has not yet been isolated and which is too small to see by ordinary means. One or more germs are often present also.

As a rule the infant who is stricken appears to be healthy and thriving; suddenly the child becomes drowsy and if awakened makes a short weak cry. The temperature is not usually high, generally being below 100.

At about the same time, or within a few hours, the baby begins to have loose, watery, yellowish bowel movements, without any obvious mucus, blood or pus. These watery movements come more and more frequently.

Especially alarming is the loss of weight in these small infants, which may be as much as a pound within the first day. (This is sometimes one-sixth of the total weight.)

After a short time the baby no longer looks healthy but shows signs of having insufficient fluid in the system and may look very ill indeed.

In severe cases a baby may die from this disease within a day or two. As a rule the disease lasts about a week; only about half recover.

Children over four weeks old and grownups do not seem to catch it. Infants who have gone home after exposure can develop the condition at home.

Once a case develops in a nursery, it spreads rapidly to the infants in adjoining bassinets. Most of those who are likely to catch the disease do so from two to six days after exposure.

When epidemic diarrhea breaks out in a hospital nursery, preventive measures have to be begun at once. The babies who are well, but in the nursery at the time, also have to be isolated and observed closely for any signs of the disease.

Visitors, of course, must be excluded during such periods not only from the babies who have become ill but also from those who were exposed. New babies must not be admitted to the nursery.

Treatment has been disappointing. No definite cure has been discovered and so far the most important measure seems to be to give the infant feedings of mother's milk if at all possible.

There have been favorable reports from a few of the antibiotics and a good treatment may be found at any time.

All of those who have studied this subject seem agreed that the strictest precautions to avoid unnecessary traffic by visitors and others near the nursery or the maternity floors is necessary if epidemic diarrhea of the newborn is to be promptly controlled.

Apparently fewer outbreaks of epidemic diarrhea of the newborn have been occurring lately than 10 or 12 years ago, but health officials must be on guard constantly whenever they do happen.

Elevators For Bridge

ST. IGNACE, Mich. (AP)—The 100 million dollar Straits of Mackinac Bridge, which will link Michigan's two peninsulas, will have two elevators. Each will travel the equivalent, up and down, of an elevator in a 47-story office building. The elevators, to carry service crews, will be in the bridge's two main suspension towers, which will rise 552 feet above the water.

The greatest number of immigrants in any one year was 1,285,000 in 1907.

As Sedalia Sees It—

New Pentagon Official Has Joined the Secret Roster

By JOSEPH A. DEAR
Democrat-Capital
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — R. Karl Honaman, who was recently assigned the job of overhauling Pentagon information policy by Defense Secretary Wilson, is still on the payroll of Bell Telephone.

He is merely one of the many Pentagon officials whose salaries are paid wholly or in part by private industry. At least 50 officials are in this category. But the Pentagon has refused to identify them.

If anything the Pentagon has become more secretive since Honaman's arrival. He has developed new tests which will almost certainly restrict the flow of news from the Defense Department.

One of the tests that should govern the release of information, according to Honaman, is the Pentagon's estimate of its newsworthiness. He has written that there are many demands for information "which do not truly meet the requirements of being useful or valuable nor yet very interesting to the public." It is his opinion that "these are tests that should be met."

It is apparently on the basis of these tests, and perhaps others, that the Pentagon refused to identify employees who are paid by industry and the government. Honaman, incidentally, receives no government salary. Bell Labs, where he was director of publications before coming with the government, is his paymaster.

But other officials are receiving double compensation. For example, this week an investigation by the House Armed Service Committee disclosed that the staff director of petroleum logistics for the Defense Dept., Brig. Gen. W. W. White, is receiving money from Esso Export Corporation. He was vice president of the corporation, which makes up the difference between his former salary and what he now gets from the government. Other Pentagon officials in even more sensitive positions collect checks from private industry while "on leave with pay."

The Pentagon is not the only federal department where top officials are paid by private industry. About 30 key men in the Business and Defense Services Administration of the Commerce Department are serving without compensation from the government.

A partial listing of these Commerce Department employees follows: Stanley Damkroger of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph; Norval Postweiler of Riegel Paper Corporation; Harold Erskine of Aluminum Company of America; Joseph Eskridge of American Motors; Theodore Hodgins of Reichhold Chemicals; George Peterson of Simplex Wire and Cable; Thomas Moore of Sharon Steel; William Firsching of Babcock and Wilcox.

A Senate amendment to the Defense Production Act would bar persons whose salaries are paid by private industry from serving as administrators, directors, or deputy directors in the Commerce Department. Secretary of Commerce Weeks has urged the House to eject the amendment. He contended the amendment would be crippling.

The Senate Banking and Currency Committee, which approved the amendment, contended that during peacetime "there is great danger that the pressures of private interests may outweigh public responsibilities." Therefore, the Committee concluded, the conflict of interest statute should again apply to jobs at the Commerce Department.

A recent report from Comptroller General Joseph Campbell indicates the kind of risk the government takes by waiving the conflict of interests statute—which is based on the theory that it's difficult to serve two masters.

One name mentioned in the Campbell report was Howard Young, president of the American Zinc, Lead, and Smelting Company. From September 1951 to May 1953 Young was the unpaid deputy director of the Defense Materials

Production Administration, which has since been merged into another agency.

DMPA helped three marginal mining companies get government funds and contracts for zinc production. There was "no substantial production" in spite of this help. Thus the federal funds are as good as lost.

According to Campbell, American Zinc was "beneficially interested in the program" of the three marginal producers. And Young, president of American Zinc, was a key official of DMPA.

SOME PEOPLE FROM another town had been on a trip, and while they were gone they bought a little lamb. On their way home they stopped in Sedalia to visit relatives and the man had the little lamb out in the front yard most of the day where it could roam around.

One of the young men in the family took his baby daughter out in the yard to the little lamb to show it to her and as he went back to the front porch he handed the baby to his teen-age sister.

The girl noticed a little black bug on the baby and she brushed it off. Then she saw a lot more little black bugs.

"This baby is just covered with bugs," she said.

"Those are oat bugs," her aunt told her.

That was just what she thought — oat bugs. The baby had gotten goat bugs from that dirty, smelly little lamb.

It was a little later the little lamb was put in a shed and some of the children in the family wanted to go out there and see it.

"Well, don't you get too close to that lamb," said the girl. "You'll get goat bugs all over you."

Then somebody told her they were not goat bugs but oat bugs and they were not coming off the little lamb because the lamb didn't have any bugs. — H. L.

IN THE CEILING of the Sedalia Bank and Trust Co. is a large round recess for indirect lighting. One day recently a very small girl went into the bank with her mother and looking up she pulled on her mother's skirt: "Look, Mommie" she said, "A swimming pool."

Guest Editorial—

JOPLIN GLOBE: They Won't—But If They Would? — During group conversation regarding the dreadful holiday traffic accident toll one Joplin citizen said in driving home on the evening of the Fourth he was appalled by the number of traffic rule violations he himself witnessed. Drivers who seemingly paid no attention to yellow guiding lines on pavements, who passed him recklessly on hills, and who committed numerous other violations that ordinary common sense would seem to preclude. "You felt as if you ought to make a personal effort to get them punished," he said.

Many drivers had similar experiences but, like this citizen, probably not one was disposed to make a personal effort to report and testify against violators. Yet if the drivers who flout common rules of safety for themselves and other users of the highways knew the folks in the cars observing their malfactions were more likely to report them than not, what a difference it would make.

At least 26 million persons get a serious sunburn each year, but this young lady won't be among them. She's picked a sun-tan preparation especially suited to her dry skin. It's a new foamy product in a pressurized can.

Sunburn Can Be Painful; Be Cautious In Risking It

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Like a black eye, sunburn remains the butt of many jokes. A young woman comes into the office on Monday morning, gingerly holding her blouse away from her shoulders. This is the immediate signal for everyone to greet her with hearty slaps on the shoulder. It is not funny. It's very painful. And about 26 million persons a year suffer from a serious sunburn. This includes the agonizing cases of sun poisoning that put one right to bed.

Perhaps what unconsciously makes people think it is funny is the fact that it's preventable and they usually assume that the afflicted one was simply in a great hurry to get a good bronze color and bypassed common sense or sun-tan lotion in her pursuit of it.

Probably the backslappers think she's silly and ought to suffer for it. The answer is that she already is. She shouldn't let it happen again, if trial and error can teach. Roasting oneself in oil is not the answer. A sun-tan lotion is. Keep in mind that a sun-tan preparation is as personal as a lipstick color. What works divinely for a friend may be of no use to you. Pick from the counter with care and then test it out before you depend on it for a day in the tropics. As a sample of the individuality of sun-tan preparations, there is a new foamy lotion in a pressurized can that is made just for dry skins.

Although private colleges and universities in the United States outnumber public institutions 1,000 to 350, the public institutions have slightly more students than the private.

Osage Bowmen To Sponsor State Archery Tournament

Local Club Will Be Hosts To Over 70 Bowmen On Sunday

With an increase in the interest in archery around Sedalia the local archery club, the Osage Bowmen, have succeeded in bringing the state archery tournament here. The state contest will be held Sunday, July 17, at the archery range, which is located two miles southeast of the Sedalia Water Works, on South Ingram.

At least seventy members of the various archery clubs, representing Moberly, St. Louis, Kansas City, Camden, Clinton, Jefferson City and several other communities will take part in the shooting, which will begin at 10 a. m.

The first contest to be held will be the 28 Field Round. This event calls for four arrows and will consist of a round target.

After this first event the group will have a noon luncheon at which sandwiches and cold drinks will be served. The archers will turn in their score cards at the noon hour so that they may be tabulated and the winners will be seeded with the winners.

At 1 p. m. the contestants will take part in the Broad Head Round, which consists of shooting at animal targets. The archers will shoot until they get a hit or until they have used three arrows. Twenty-eight targets are also used in this event.

The top twenty-five percent of the men in the tournament will be given an expert rating. The first place winner will receive a trophy and the next two winners medals.

The next fifty per cent will be ranked as Bowmen and the top man in this division will receive a trophy as the next two receive medals.

The last twenty-five per cent will be ranked as archers. The top archer will receive a trophy and the next two will also receive medals.

In the women's division the first twenty-five per cent will be classified as experts with the first place winner receiving a trophy and the next place receiving a medal.

The next fifty per cent are rated as Bowmen and the winner will receive a medal.

The final twenty-five per cent will be ranked as archers with the top place winner in this group receiving a medal.

One trophy and two medals will also be awarded the intermediate class, which is comprised of youngsters from 12-16 years of age.

One trophy and one medal will be awarded to the top members of the junior division, which is comprised of children from 6-12 years of age.

The public is invited to attend the tournament and watch the archers in their contests. It was hoped that a large crowd will attend to witness this sport which has had few witnesses in the local area for several years.

To get to the tournament site instructions are to follow Ingram Avenue from the underpass on East Broadway to the old covered bridge across Flat Creek at the local water works. Then follow the signs which will be posted.

Musial Is The Star—

Twelfth Inning Home Run Brings All-Star Laurels To Stan Musial

(Ed.) In all wire stories coming over about Tuesday's All-Star game the lead paragraph is concerned with Stan Musial and none of the terms describing the St. Louis man can be too endearing. Suddenly Musial has become a major topic for all the National League fans as he has always been in Missouri. His life history is being recounted in most of the articles published, but this resume of the game by Joe Reichler of the Associated Press, gives a clear picture of the "star" in his All-Star game.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Stan (The Man) Musial, toast of the National League for the past 14 years, is the new darling of baseball-mad Milwaukee today even if he doesn't wear a Braves uniform.

The majority of the capacity crowd of 45,314 paying customers, not to mention the countless television viewers who saw the great St. Louis Cardinal star smash a 12th-inning home run yesterday to give the National League an up-hill 6-5 victory over the American in the 22nd annual All-Star spectacle, were convinced he's the greatest.

The storybook finish was a fitting climax to a wonderful day for Milwaukeeans, who were treated to perfect weather for their first All-Star home game in their three years in the National League. Not only did they see their heroes overcome what at one time seemed an insurmountable 5-0 deficit, but a trio of their own Braves had key roles in the thrilling comeback drive.

It was Johnny Logan, Milwaukee shortstop, who singled in the first National League run in the seventh. It was Henry Aaron, Milwaukee right fielder, who singled in the run that made it 5-4 in the eighth and set the stage for Al Rosen's error that permitted the tying run to cross the plate. And it was Milwaukee pitcher Gene Conley's spectacular feat in striking out Al Kaline, Mickey Vernon and Al Rosen in the top of the 12th that preceded Musial's game-winning blow.

There were other National League heroes too. Willie Mays of the New York Giants contributed greatly with two rally-igniting sin-for two in the fifth, increasing the lead to 10 runs, when the Adcos produced a rally that netted six runs.

The Optimists failed to score in the sixth, but the Adcos pulled one run across the plate before they were put out to bring their total to ten, as opposed to the 13 Optimist tallies.

gles and a leaping back-to-the-fence catch of a towering drive by Ted Williams that had the home run label torn off it at the last instant.

There was St. Louis' Harvey Haddix, who pitched a fine three innings after the American League sluggers had blasted into an early 4-0 lead at the expense of Robin Roberts, Philadelphia's great right-hander. There was Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati's slugging first baseman, who had a double and single and contributed a fielding gem on a sizzler by Yogi Berra that resulted in a rally-killing double play.

Last but not least was the gritty clutch pitching of young Joe Nuxhall, the Redleg southpaw, who fanned five in 3 1-3 innings of runless pitching after relieving Chicago's Sam Jones. Nuxhall struck out Whitey Ford with two out and the bases full in the eighth.

There were heroes on the losing side too. Billy Pierce was brilliant in his opening three-inning stint. The little Chicago White Sox left-hander faced only nine as he

Kansas Citians Now Racing In the CMRA

The racing as a whole was pretty slow Tuesday night at the Sweet Springs Memorial Speedway.

The trophy dash was taken again by Joe Dennis, Clinton, who will not be eligible to race for the cup again as he has won it three times.

Others in the race with Dennis were: George Aleshire, Moberly; Chet Larson, Austin, Tex., racing out of Kansas City; and Pistol Gunn, Moberly.

In the first heat which was finally run after two starts George Deer, Sweet Springs took the first place position and was followed for second by a fellow hometownsman, Jack Lemmon. Third place was topped by Shorty Ackers, Clinton.

The second heat was taken by Roy Marr, Kansas City. Harold Cromley, Marshall, and Henry Powell, Warsaw, were second and third place winners respectively.

The third heat was taken by Tubby Mast, Moberly. Second place went to Ken Taylor, Slater, and third place to Torch Aleshire, Moberly. This heat was the fastest of the evening with a three minute 20.6 second oval.

The feature race was taken by Torch Aleshire with the following in next place order: Ken Taylor; Joe Dennis; Tubby Mast; Harold Cromley; and Ray Marr, Kansas City.

The consolation race was taken by Jud Larson, who was racing at the Sweet Springs track for the first time this season; second place was taken by Russ Hibbard, Slater, third place, George Deer, and fourth Jack Lemmons.

Many of the Kansas City drivers are returning to the Sweet Springs track, which should provide much faster racing for the local fans.

struck out three, did not give up a run and allowed only a leadoff single to Red Schoendienst.

Mickey Mantle struck the game's longest blow, a tremendous 425-foot home run over the center field fence into the distant trees with two men on base in the first inning.

Early Wynn, Cleveland right-hander, picked up where Pierce left off, holding the Nationals scoreless with two harmless hits in the middle three innings. Sullivan, the tall Boston right-hander, also did well, hurling 3 1-3 scoreless relief innings until that fatal blow by Musial.

But it was the 34-year-old Musial, the oldest National League player in the game, who received the biggest ovation and who was nearly hugged to death by his joyous teammates when he lit into Frank Sullivan's first pitch to break up the second extra-inning game in All-Star history. The first occurred in 1950 when Schoendienst, another Cardinal star, homered in the 14th to give the Nationals a 4-3 triumph.

Babe Ruth All-Stars To Be Chosen July 14

Sedalia AFB Takes Grandview 10-9 Here Sun.

An amazing triple play by short stop Mandrake highlighted a baseball game Sunday in which Sedalia rallied in the eighth inning to down Grandview AFB of Kansas City 10-9.

The unusual play came in the second inning when SAFB batter Jim Holt socked a line drive over short with men on first and second.

The short stop, Mandrake, made an impossible leap for the ball, then thinking he had missed it turned to chase it into left field. However, much to the amazement of everyone, including Mandrake, he found the ball clinging to the webbing of his glove.

Sedalia's runners had started around the base paths and were too stunned to move as Mandrake fired to the second baseman who in turn fired to first. Three quick outs and Sedalia was retired.

This didn't dampen the spirits of the SAFB nine, however, as the same three batters figuring in the triple play accounted for the eighth inning rally which beat the Grandview team.

Chuck Kreuger, who was at second, blasted a bases loaded double to score three runs; Max Anderson, who was caught off first, rapped a single to drive in the tying run; and Jim Holt, unfortunate victim of the triple play, hit a single to score the winning run.

Gary Cooper In Hollywood Role Again

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — After a three year absence, the "yep and nope" man, Gary Cooper, is back before the Hollywood cameras.

Coop is playing the air power pioneer in "The Court-Martial of Billy Mitchell," and it's his first film here since he won the 1952 Oscar for "High Noon." He has made "Return to Paradise" in the South Pacific and "Garden of Evil" and "Vera Cruz" in Mexico since then. He was reportedly one of the stars who went overseas for the 18-month tax deal, but he claims he didn't profit therefrom. "Don't you like working in Hollywood?" he was asked.

"Sure, I like working in Hollywood."

"Then why have you been gone so long?"

"Cause I couldn't find any worthwhile properties to do. Oh, I could do a lot of junk, but what's the use of that?"

"What do you do to keep busy?"

"Well I figure I read 3,000 film treatments, 425,000 novels and several thousand TV dramas. That was enough to keep me busy," he kidded.

"And I also have done a passel of hunting and fishing. Went up north for a while and killed me a b'ar while I was there."

He indicated that his leisure was over for a spell. After "Court-Martial," he reports to William Wyler for "Friendly Persuasion," a comedy-drama about a Quaker.

Hollywood took a long time in getting around the Billy Mitchell story, but now it's being done in thorough style. The armed forces, which long were touchy about the Mitchell matter, are cooperating with the film. The company just returned from shooting background in Washington, D. C.

Billy Mitchell was a World War I general who was among the first to see the value of air power in modern war.

He was court-martialed in 1925 for statements to a newspaper strongly critical of the Navy and War departments.

The lengthy trial featured Mitchell's beliefs in the value of air power. He was suspended without pay and rating for five years. He resigned from the Army in 1926 and devoted the years until his death in 1936 to writing and preaching about the use of aircraft in modern war.

Writes Pop Music in Spare Time--

Hit Song Writers Concerned With Public Service Works

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Up at the top of most of the hit song charts these days there's a haunting item called "Unchained Melody." It was written by Alex North and Hy Zaret, and Zaret is pretty proud of his lyrics which start, "Oh, my love, my darling."

But, at the moment, he's even prouder of another set of lyrics. These go like so:

"Ring! Ring! Oh, ring the bell!
"Ring the bell for mental health!
"Ring! Ring — 'til all are well—
"Ring the bell for mental health!"

That isn't on any hit song chart, or disc jockey show, or juke box. But you may have heard it on radio, part of a mental health campaign which is unique in its use of "singing commercials."

Zaret and Lou Singer wrote eight such numbers, which are being offered to any radio station by the National Association for Mental Health and the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co.

Besides "Ring the Bell for Mental Health," there are "Mental Health Toast," "Facts and Figures," "How's Your Mental Health?" and four others, recorded by singing stars Bill ("Davy Crockett") Hayes, Eddy Arnold, Sally Sweetland, Betty Johnson and The Toppers.

For Zaret and Singer, this type of public service creation is nothing new. Even though Zaret, a short, crew-cut ex-lawyer, has written such hits as "Unchained," "My Sister and I," "One Meat Ball" and "It All Comes Back to Me Now," he prefers operating in the field of educational and public service songs. In fact, "Unchained" is the only pop song he's written in a year.

"Over the past ten years," he says, "I've devoted perhaps 15 per cent of my time to pop music. The rest—85 per cent—to the other stuff."

Which is unique in music, because this "other stuff" isn't particularly money-making. Zaret says he could make much more money operating solely in the June-Moon end of music. "But I honestly get more creative satisfaction out of writing public service music," he says.

And you can't buy creative satisfaction, even at Macy's.

Zaret more or less stumbled on the field that gives him his greatest joy. His first taste was in the Army, where, with Frank Loesser, he wrote songs on order for the brass—such items as the official songs for the Chaplains' Corps and the Army Nurse Corps.

Then, back in musical mufti, he was asked by a local New York radio station to whip up some one-minute spots "about things like the Bill of Rights." "I'd just got out of the Army," he says, "and I was a little tired of flag-waving." But he took six weeks for research and suddenly got excited about the project; instead of the four songs requested, he and Singer wrote 12.

They were called "Little Songs on Big Subjects," and more than 200 U.S. radio stations still play them. Their success started Zaret thinking.

"I realized this was something historically important in music," he says. "In one minute, we could present a complete song. It wasn't just a jingle, but a real little song. I concluded that in one minute you could do a complete cantata or almost any musical composition."

And so Zaret and Singer set to work and produced little songs about other subjects—for example, one set for and about the U.N.—and educational songs such as their current Columbia set, "Now We Know." Zaret also wrote a blues opera about VD for the government and more and more tended to concentrate on public service music.

"I think it's the coming thing," he says. "We can teach anything with music. TV and radio haven't scratched the surface yet. Imagine what could have been done with 'Davy Crockett.'"

He sees a happy, educational time coming when schools will make more use of entertainment facilities — TV, movies and, of course, music.

"Kids watch TV at home," he says, "and the school becomes lame by comparison. Schools will have to compete, and the best way is to teach entertainingly."

He thinks he and Singer have proven that a singing commercial can sell knowledge and ideas as well as beer and tomato sauce.

Robs Same Apartment To Obtain Meal Money

WORCESTER, Mass. —Richard P. Cincotta, 21, was arrested early today for breaking into the same apartment with monotonous regularity.

Police said he admitted entering an unlocked apartment on Pleasant Street on July 6 and taking a watch valued at $50. He said he sold it for 50 cents to get eating money.

He returned the next day, he was quoted as saying, and stole a pair of dungarees, leaving his old pants behind.

He re-entered the same apartment yesterday and said he stole a $75 camera. He said he sold it for $5 but received only $1.50 as a down payment. Cincotta was quoted as saying he needed the money to pay for a meal.

He was arrested in a restaurant.

Crockett Bear Delayed

OKAWVILLE, Ill. — Davy Crockett didn't kill a bear when he was three, according to one of his nearest living relatives. The first killing by the famed Indian fighter and frontiersman didn't occur until he was eight.

Contrary to song and story, that is the word passed on by Mrs. Margie Ree Cohn.

According to family legends, Mrs. Cohn said Davy Crockett was responsible for obtaining meat for the family when he was eight because his father and older brothers were too busy with the crops.

To do this job, Davy was given one bullet a day. If he shot and missed he still had to get the meat. In a short time, he rarely missed. Officials of the 1938 Texas Centennial compiled a genealogy tracing Mrs. Cohn's relationship to Crockett.

Crockett and his first wife had three children, two boys and one ers. They were the parents of Mrs. Cohn's grandfather, David Flowers. David's son, Thomas, was Mrs. Cohn's father, making Davy Crockett her great-great grandfather.

Keep Cool All Day With Bath Rubdown

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The old trick of rubbing ice-cold cologne on the wrists on blistering days really works.

But how much cooler to do it all over! Rubs with refreshing beauty preparations just after the bath or shower can launch one into the day with the feeling of being iced.

Start out the routine by patting rather than rubbing yourself dry. The good stiff rub with a scratchy towel that was so invigorating in the winter is enervating in the summer. It heats the skin up to boiler temperature. Pat, pat, pat all over with a minimum of waste motion or strain.

Then get out the big jug of rubbing preparation. Stay away from the knockout scents. The crisper, cooler ones are the ones to seek in warm weather. The scent won't make you reel all day.

One pleasant one has a citrus scent for a cooler-than-orange-juice manner.

This one is good for the all-over use because the price is moderate enough to keep one from feeling spendthrift while rubbing it on. It is said to close the pores and reduce skin temperature for a really fresh start to the day.

DOWN COMES A STEM of bananas as workers on an Ecuadorian plantation harvest the fruit. New tree grows on old roots.

Leader in Its Field--

Ecuador Leads Producers Of South American Banana Crop

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador —(NEA)—South of the border, where the northerner's name for most countries used to be "banana republic," the new top banana is Ecuador, a republic once known chiefly for its skill in producing Panama hats.

It's a banana boom that for Ecuadorians is almost like a gold rush as thousands of new growers move into the soil rich jungle bottoms to take advantage of the government's program to boost an agricultural industry that has jumped more than 300 per cent since 1948.

Men from all parts of the world—including many an American ex-GI—have been lured by the banana tree's magic growth to get into business on 500-acre tracts which the government has given free to encourage small, independent growers.

The banana bonanza has made Ecuador the world's biggest producer, with 35,000 independent growers and 100,000 working in the industry. Last year's crop of 31 million stems was worth $35,000,000. This year's is expected to reach 40 million stems (about 320 million pounds of bananas, one-fifth of the world's total banana exports).

One lure for growers is that Ecuador's banana season is 24 hours a day, all year long. In the fabulous black muck of the jungle, where no fertilizer is needed to get into business, a new tree springs from the roots of the one just harvested and is ready for its own harvest three to four months later.

At the moment there is a second lure—an almost limitless market. Ecuador's chief competitors, the Central American producers, are currently feeling the pinch of a long siege of strikes, floods, wind storms and plant diseases.

Vegetable Truck Gets Police Ticket By Self

DAYTON, Ohio —A load of vegetables got a ticket today for disturbing the peace.

Residents near an outlying shopping center complained to the Montgomery County sheriff's office that noise from a parked refrigerator truck was disturbing their slumber. Deputies couldn't locate the driver and were afraid to turn off the refrigerator motor.

So they hung a ticket on the truck charging the driver with disturbing the peace.

Declines Risk On TV Money Quiz Program

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Catherine Kreitzer took a cue from the Bible and last night declined to risk her $32,000 TV quiz show winnings on the chance of doubling her money.

Her knowledge of the Bible had given the 54-year-old grandmother from Camp Hill, Pa., answers to questions that enabled her to acquire the $32,000 in three previous appearances on the CBS show "The $64,000 Question."

Last night she had the choice of taking her winnings thus far or trying another question, which, if answered correctly, would have won her the top prize of $64,000. If she had missed the answer, she would have gotten an automobile as a consolation prize.

For a moment it appeared that she would take the chance. She told Hal March, the master of ceremonies, that she felt pretty confident she could answer the final question. The studio audience burst into excited applause.

When the applause died down, however, she added that she would heed the biblical quotation—"Let your moderation be known to all men"—and would be satisfied with the $32,000.

Mrs. Kreitzer, who works as a typist at a naval supply depot, told reporters she had made up her mind several days ago not to shoot for the $64,000.

When asked what she would do with her winnings, she said she didn't know but would put it in the bank "for the time being—until things calm down a little."

Red Prophecy Of Collapse Not Fulfilled

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower will be leading from economic strength at Geneva. Figures out this week show production in this country reaching new record highs. And industrial output of the United States' allies in Western Europe is making even more sensational gains over last year.

Whether the Soviet economic system is threatened with collapse, as some Washington officials have been suggesting, or whether it is healthy, as top Russian leaders insist, there is concrete evidence today that the Western world is economically stronger than ever.

This, of course, is just what the Reds hadn't counted on. Ever since the end of the war they've been predicting that capitalism would run into a postwar depression, which would give the Communists a fertile field for subversion.

But this week the Department of Commerce, after taking a second look at the total production of goods and services in the United States last year, reports that despite the much talked about recession, output slipped only 1 per cent below prosperous 1953.

And this year the total output has been climbing steadily into new high ground. President Eisenhower goes to Geneva with this nation's economy stepping forth at a record clip of nearly 380 billion dollars a year.

The United Nations Bulletin of Statistics reports this week that the world outside the Soviet bloc states and the mainland of China had a record first-quarter total output in manufacturing and mining. Production ran 8 per cent heavier than the year before, with the most striking gains chalked up by France and Western Germany.

In his own country the President can report that even the usual summer slump in some lines, for vacations or slackening of demand during hot weather, shows signs at the outset of being mild.

Employment is up from last year—around 14 million more persons are working than last summer. Wage and salary payments have climbed about 5 per cent above last year. The average factory weekly paycheck is the fattest in history.

Pavement Buckles

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Anthony Parino was driving down one of Galveston's principal seaside streets when the pavement buckled upward about three feet. He could not stop his car in time and it was flipped over. Officers said all they could figure was that the high afternoon temperatures caused the pavement to expand and buckle. Parino and his wife suffered cuts and bruises.

Death Due to Rabies

HOUSTON (AP)—A June 7 death originally blamed on a heart condition actually was the result of rabies, laboratory tests showed yesterday.

The death certificate for Frank H. Lout, 46, ascribed death to a heart condition. The attending physician said yesterday an electrocardiogram showed a heart disturbance and there was no indication Lout had been bitten or otherwise exposed to rabies.

Prison Riot Quelled After Wild Rioting

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (AP)—Guards at Saskatchewan Penitentiary forced 600 prisoners back into their cells last night after a two-hour riot in the prison yard. A guard and a prisoner were injured.

The convicts set fire to 10 buildings, burning the stables, flour shed and cement shed to the ground. They grabbed six guards as hostages but released them after a short time.

The disturbance broke out as the men were winding up their late afternoon recreation period. Deputy Warden G. T. Crofton said they made no apparent attempt to break out. He gave no explanation for the riot.

Woman Killed When Child Hits Gas Pedal

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—A 2-year-old girl, left alone yesterday in a car which was parked with its engine running, stepped on the accelerator and killed a woman who was preparing to take her for a ride.

Police said Mrs. O. H. Beal, 52, a close friend of the child's parents, was knocked down and dragged 30 feet. She died in a hospital two hours later.

Mrs. Beal had placed Pauline Marie Gailey, 1, her car and had gone into the child's home to get her a pair of socks. She was returning to the car and was in front of it when the accident occurred.

The car was equipped with an automatic transmission, and police said it apparently had been left in gear.

The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer S. Gailey, witnessed the accident. The child was not hurt.

Cites Highway Plans For Future Driving

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—J. Paul Buckley, chief engineer for the Automotive Safety Foundation's highway division, says these are among the things motorists can expect for the future:

Separate highway lanes for specific speeds, helicopter removal of disabled cars, bridges, across huge lakes, lighted highways eliminating headlights and pavements that melt snow and sleet.

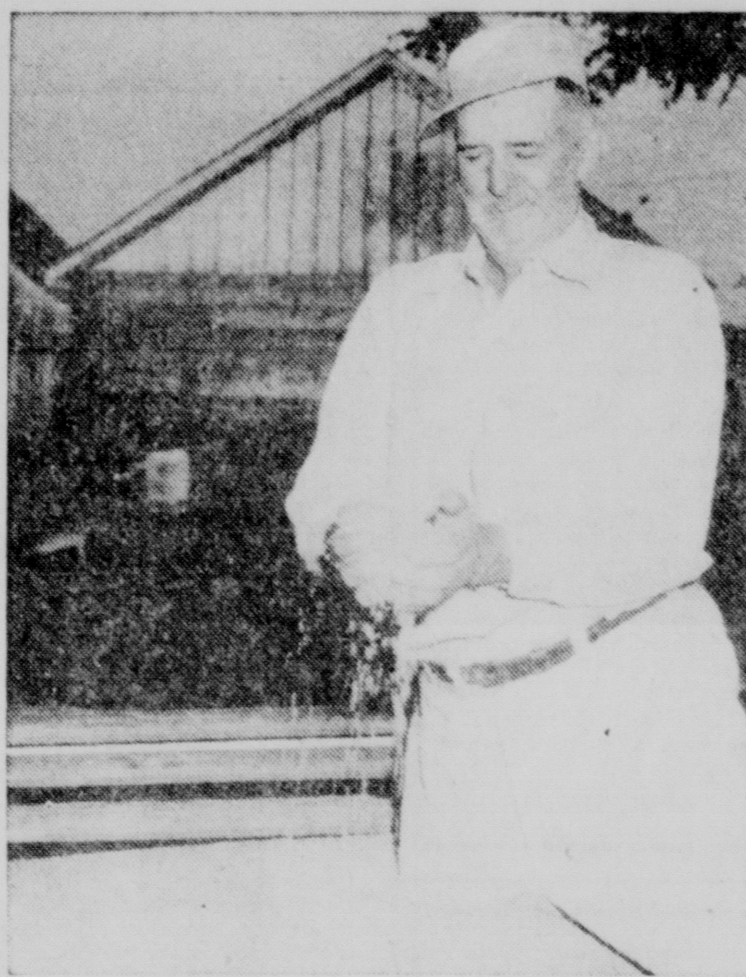

Buckley spoke yesterday at a University of Michigan transportation conference.

Cigarette Filter Is Too Effective To Use

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP)—Norman Sharpe, a professor at California State Polytechnic College, says he has devised a holder that removes more than 95 per cent of a cigarette's nicotine. He concedes commercial possibilities for the experimental filter are about nil because "it removes all the smoke and taste as well."

Falls To Safety

BANKS, Idaho (AP)—Edward J. O'Toole, 34, of Nampa, drove his cement truck onto a soft shoulder of the highway near here yesterday and plunged 80 feet down a rocky gorge into the Payette River. He clambored out with only a few cuts and bruises.

RECORD YIELD—Record-breaking wheat yields are being reported in various sections of Missouri this year. C. M. Sellers, Houstonia smiles his approval of his wheat yield. From a 17-acre field Sellers harvested 112 bushels which was weighed over the scales at the MFA Elevator in Sweet Springs. This is more than 65 bushels an acre. The same field averaged about 55 bushels to the acre last year.

Hal Boyle's Column--

Today's 'Hillbilly' Seems Far From Old Conception

By HAL BOYLE

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—There is a new kind of "hillbilly."

Here in the Great Smokies — heart of old hillbillyland — the mountain people have found a new way of life that enables them to keep their ancient freedom while escaping the poverty of the past.

The fictional hillbilly has become part of American folklore. He is a shiftless figure in overalls who runs through the hills barefooted, a guitar slung over his shoulder, an old hog rifle in one hand, a jug of moonshine in the other.

But your real mountaineer isn't that kind of man at all. The popular idea of a hillbilly tickles his sense of humor. Sometimes he does not mind playing up to this role a bit for the tourists, but he does not relish having a "flatland furriner" call him a "hillbilly." He prefers to be known as a Southern highlander, a hillsman or mountain man.

The industrialization of the Tennessee Valley has brought rapid changes into the traditional pattern of social and economic life in the area.

The mountain men, marvelously quick to learn new skills, now come down into the valleys to work in the factories — but most still cling stubbornly to the homes in the hills.

Some drive up to 50 miles to their jobs. When the quitting whistle blows, they climb into their cars and drive back to the mountains, and till their hillside patches. They like the factory money, but they don't want to come down and live in the cities. They don't like city air.

Typical of these mountaineers is Robert Clark, a 43-year-old blacksmith in the Alcoa Aluminum plant here. Each day he drives 10 miles to work from his 12-acre mountain farm where he lives with his wife and six children.

Clark raises much of his own food. He can afford the comforts of the city man, but he wouldn't willingly move to the city if you gave him a house with five bathrooms.

"Good times are changing the mountains fast," he said. "Very few people live in log houses anymore."

"The mountain people no longer have the desire to live in town, because they can now have everything in town they need. They have electric stoves, television and radio."

"We have good schools in the country now, too. There's an $20,000 school going up in my neighborhood."

"Why should I want to live in town? You know, I've never had a haircut, a shave or a shoeshine in town in all my days."

"The country's the best place. It's a better place to raise kids. They learn how to save—and they don't get into so much trouble. My children have no desire to live in town."

While revenue agents are certain there is still a great amount of bootlegging in the Tennessee hills, Clark says the growth of factory jobs has cut it down.

"When I was a boy you could count seven stills from where I lived," he said. "Now there isn't one."

"The liquor now is being made deep in the mountains where there are no jobs. Many of the men who made moonshine in the old days never touched it themselves. They did it only to earn money for the family."

Clark who, like most mountain men, is deeply religious, neither smokes nor drinks.

"I never bought a bottle of beer in my life," he said, "and I'm not about to."

He feels he is pretty lucky. He has retained the rugged independence and individualism of his ancestors, he has achieved an economic security they never knew—and he can still enjoy the sunshine

New Passenger Record Notice Is Effective

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The Air Force claimed a new passenger-carrying record today for land-based planes. The XC99 transport landed at Convair's plant here yesterday with 212 persons on a flight from San Antonio.

HOBBS, N.M. (AP)—This notice has been posted on the wall of Municipal Judge Robert L. Bensington's office at City Hall:

"While in this office, speak in low, soothing tone and do not disagree with me in any manner."

"Please be informed that when one has reached my age, noise and nonconcurrence cause gastric hyper-peristalsis, hyper-secretion of hydrochloric acid and inflammation of the gastric mucosa, and "I BECOME UNPLEASANT."
